DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 1, 5, 12, 16, 21, 29, 37, 40, 47 and 51 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Zanchi (US 5,814,798).

Regarding claims 1, 12, 21, 29, 37, 47 and 51, Zanchi teaches a wireless communication system (fig. 7) which supplies information data to a wireless client through a wireless data communication network, comprising: an information source server which includes the information data and a gateway server (inherent) which is connected to the information source server via a network and selectively connected to the wireless client via the wireless data communication network, the gateway server (col. 4, lines 4-63) comprising: a font storing unit for storing a font which is used in the wireless client to output the information data; a font determining unit for determining a font to be stored in the font storing unit; and a font transferring unit for transferring the determined font to the wireless client, wherein the gateway server temporarily stores the information data sent from the information source server and sends the information data to the wireless client according to a data reception state of the wireless client concerned with the determined font (col. 6, line 39- col. 7, line 26).

Regarding claims 5, 16 and 40, Zanchi teaches the user control server cooperates with the gateway server (fig. 14, elements 913-916).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 3, 14 and 22 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Zanchi (US 5,814,798) in view of Kovacs et al (US 2001/0003191).

Regarding claims 3, 14 and 22, Zanchi fails to specifically disclose the gateway server includes an authenticating unit which performs authentication for connecting the wireless client to the gateway server. However, an authenticating unit which performs authentication for connecting the wireless client to the gateway server is well known in the art as disclosed by Kovacs, see paragraph 0056. Therefore, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to include Kovacs' teachings of authenticating unit which performs authentication for connecting the wireless client to the gateway server with Zanchi's invention in order to assure proper usage of the system.

Claims 9-11, 18-20, 26-29, 34-36, 44-46 and 48-50 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Zanchi (US 5,814,798).

Regarding claims 9-11, 18-20, 26-29, 34-36, 44-46 and 48-50, Zanchi fails to specifically disclose the determined font is a character font used to display or a special font representing a pictogram or a voice font used to output a voice. However, official notice is taken, that it is well known in the art to have a font that a character font used to display or a special font representing a pictogram or a voice font used to output a voice. Therefore, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to include a font that is a character font used to display or a special font representing a pictogram or a voice font used to output a voice with Zanchó's invention in order to provide the user with different options regarding the particular manipulations of the fonts.

Claims 7, 23, 24, 32 and 42 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Zanchó (US 5,814,798) in view of Simon et al (US 6,065,008).

Regarding claims 7, 23, 24, 32 and 42, Zanchó fails to specifically disclose a font server which stores a plurality of candidate fonts used and selected by the font determining unit. However, Simon does disclose a font server which stores a plurality of candidate fonts used and selected by the font determining unit (col. 2, lines 27-39). Therefore, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to include a font server which stores a plurality of candidate fonts used and selected by the font determining unit as taught by Simon with Zanchó's invention in order to provide to user with numerous fonts.

Allowable Subject Matter

Claims 2, 4, 6, 8, 13, 15, 17, 25, 30, 31, 33, 38, 39, 41 and 43 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

Regarding claims 2, 13, 31 and 39, the prior art of record fails to specifically disclose the font-determining unit determines the font that corresponds to a language selected in the wireless client.

Regarding claims 4, 15, 30 and 38, the prior art of record fails to specifically disclose the font determining unit determines the font while the authenticating unit performs the authentication.

Regarding claims 6, 17 and 41, the prior art of record fails to specifically disclose determining the font by using a user information database which includes at least user information stored in advance to be used in the authenticating unit, correspondence information which represents relationship between the language used by the font determining unit and the font stored to display the information data, and history of determining results of the font determining unit.

Regarding claims 8, 25, 33 and 43, the prior art of record fails to specifically disclose a plurality of candidate fonts used by the font determining unit are stored to be determined as the determined font in the gateway server.

Conclusion

The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.

US 2002/0194261, disclose a font sharing system and method and recording medium storing program for executing font sharing method.
